Hopkins Has Long Parley With Russian Ambassador In London

CONFERS TONIGHT WITH CHURCHILL

Plans For Greatest Flow Of Munitions To Russia Are Hinted

(By Associated Press) LONDON, April 13.—Harry Hopkins, adviser to President Roosevelt, and his lend-lease expert, held a long conference today with the Russian ambassador, Ivan Maisky, at the United States embassy.

Hopkins will confer tonight with Prime Minister Churchill and probably present the results of the interview with Maisky.

Gen. George C. Marshall, United States army chief of staff, was at the embassy frequently during the day, but did not participate in the talks with the Russian diplomat.

Informed quarters here have said that the prime objective of Hopkins and Gen. Marshall is to use every means within the power of the United States and Britain to assist Russia in the crucial battles expected this spring and summer.

Short on Equipment Russia is long on manpower but short on equipment, and the presence of Hopkins was called a signal for an even greater flow of planes, tanks, munitions and other material to the Soviet by way of Murmansk and the Gulf of Persia.

The growing United States military establishments in northern Ireland which Gen. Marshall has been inspecting, and the steadily mounting flow of warplanes was held as an indication that United States pilots would join the RAF within a month in bombing Germany.

Gen. Marshall and Hopkins were said to be in complete agreement with the British that the Russian front was the critical battlefield and that Hitler was the No. 1 enemy.

NAVAL FLIERS DIE IN CRASH

Fourteen Reported Lost As Bombers Hit In California

(By Associated Press) LIVERMORE, Calif., April 13.—Fourteen U. S. navy fliers perished yesterday when two patrol bombers crashed and burned near each other in the Livermore hills.

A fifteenth man survived, without serious injury.

The crash-ups occurred in foggy weather as the giant land-and-sea ships were flying on an undisclosed mission at a point about 30 miles southeast of their base at the Alameda naval air station.

The 12th naval district headquarters in San Francisco released this list of the dead: (No home towns available).

Plane No. 1—Lieut. Frank S. Fernald, Lieut. Edward F. Denney, James M. Wagner, Henry T. Morgan, Roscoe E. Rambo, Robert A. Frank, Olliff P. Flynn.

Plane No. 2—Lieut. Com. Loren A. Morris, Charles J. Herriott, Alzie Belcher, Robert W. Hastings, Benjamin J. Johnson.

The navy withheld the names of the other two dead, one man from each plane, until the next of kin could be notified.

The sole survivor was Earl P. Patrick, 29, aviation machinist's mate, 1st class. He was flung clear when plane No. 2 struck, and was found walking about dazedly, but suffering only from cuts and bruises, by rescue crews reaching the scene. After emergency treatment, he was transferred to the naval hospital at Mare Island.

Naval officers said Patrick evidently was in the rear of the plane and was flung through a break in the fuselage.

JAP INVASION TALK BRINGS RED WARNING

Communist Paper Pravda Tells Nippon To Keep Hands Off In East

BRITISH CONTINUE BOMBING ATTACKS

Reds Divert Flood Stream To Wash Out Nazis In One Village

(By Associated Press) In apparently growing conviction that the Red army holds the whip-hand on Russia's European front, one of the leading mouth-pieces of Russian policy declared sharply today that Japanese "blabbering" about invasion in the Russian east "might damage, first of all and most of all, Japan herself."

Thus, Pravda, newspaper organ of the Communist party, oddly observed the first anniversary of the signing of the Japanese-Russian neutrality pact, the basis of the uneasy peace between the two powers and striking in similarity to the Russian-German non-aggression pact which Germany voided by invasion of the Soviet union last June.

Warning to Japs Pravda firmly warned Japan to live up to all ramifications of the agreement.

"It is necessary," the editorial declared, "that the Japanese military and Fascist cliques who are dizzy on military successes should understand that their blabbering about war and invasion in the north might damage first of all and most of all Japan herself."

Siberia is north of Japan. The anniversary and the editorial came while the new Japanese ambassador, Naotake Sato, and the new United States ambassador, Admiral William H. Stanley, were in Moscow to present their credentials.

How much of Russia's confidence depended on the possibility of a second European front was a question. There have been repeated calls that the Axis thus be diverted to facilitate Russia's position against Germany.

The RAF smashed at Axis arsenals in Germany and Italy during the night.

Not a bomber was reported lost on the 1,500-mile roundtrip foray against Turin, a munitions-making center of northern Italy, but at least 10 bombers and one fighter were lost in the sweeps to Essen's Krupp works, docks at Le Havre, France, and Aldromes in France and the low countries.

24 Claimed By Berlin The British acknowledged those losses, and the German high command denied them.

BELIEVE TEACHER INTERNED BY JAPS

Mrs. Thomas J. McPeely, Other Relatives Have Heard Nothing Of Kin In Manila Since June

Mrs. Thomas J. McPeely of N. Ellsworth ave. has received word that her cousin, A. Francis Lusk, 40, who has been a teacher in Manila since 1927, is one of about 1500 persons, mostly Americans, who have been interned there by the Japanese.

In releasing the list of the interned, Francis B. Sayre, high commissioner to the Philippines, said it was difficult, as well as dangerous, to attempt to communicate with anyone in Manila, those interned there being under threat of heavy Japanese penalty.

Mr. Lusk, when a boy, made his home with Mrs. McPeely's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Adams, in Ginger Hill, Pa. He taught in the public schools of Burgettstown, Pa., for four years and in 1927 was sent to the Philippines by the government to teach in Manila, where he has remained since.

He has made only one visit to the United States, five years ago. Married, he is the father of a three-year-old daughter. Near relatives have heard nothing from him since last June, even though they sent him word of the death of his father last August.

CORREGIDOR'S MEN HOLDING

Keep Air Raiders So High That Bombings Cause Small Damage

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, April 13.—The war department reported today that Corregidor's gunners sank a number of small Japanese boats and kept enemy raiders so high over the Philippine island fortress that bombings in a series of new raids caused only minor damage.

A communique said the Japanese boats were in the harbor of the fishing village of Mariveles at the tip of the abandoned Bataan peninsula. Several were set afire in addition to those sunk.

Meanwhile, communication between Corregidor and Cebu was cut off for the past 48 hours.

Lieutenant General Jonathan M. Wainwright was unable to report on the efforts to beat off an invasion of the central Philippine island, more than 300 miles south of Corregidor.

Report Ship Sinkings The communique reported belatedly the sinking by enemy aircraft of two army freight ships, the Liberty and the Meigs, both of which went down in the southwest Pacific.

The Liberty was torpedoed twice by an enemy submarine January 11 when 12 miles from the Netherlands Indies island of Bali. No lives were lost. The vessel was beached and 53 crew men and one passenger were rescued by Dutch planes.

The Meigs was sunk February 19 in a bombing raid on the harbor of Darwin, Australia. The master, Captain F. S. Link, died later of wounds. One crew member was killed and eight were wounded.

Ten raids were made on Corregidor in the past 24 hours, the war department said, raising the total to 22 in the last two days.

The communique said there were some casualties but military installations sustained only minor damage.

DUCE IS REPORTED IN "PROSTRATION"

London Daily Mail Correspondent Says Mussolini Has Lost Control Of Himself

LONDON, April 13.—A special correspondent of the Daily Mail on the Italian frontier cabled today that Premier Mussolini had lost all control of himself and no longer was able to manage his affairs as dictator of Italy, which now are reported in a chaotic condition.

The dispatch said: "During the interview, Il Duce sobbed bitterly, then burst into hysterical laughter. The specialist said Mussolini had lost all control of himself and no longer was able to manage his affairs as dictator of Italy, which now are reported in a chaotic condition."

Senator Connally (D-Tex.) paved the way for such a showdown by inviting those of different views to argue their case. If he is successful in bringing before the senate his bill to permit the government to take over strike-bound plants freezing working conditions and labor relations in such plants.

GOVERNMENT HITS EMPLOYMENT BIAS

Midwest Companies With War Contracts Warned Of Discrimination In Race Or Religion

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The government applied pressure on ten midwest companies holding war contracts today to discontinue asserted bias against hiring or promoting persons of certain races or religions.

The president's committee on fair employment practices, cities the companies yesterday, required them to furnish written notice that hereafter they would not disqualify job applicants or discriminate against employees because of "race, color, creed or national origin."

Ever since last June, when President Roosevelt set up the committee, recipients of war contracts have had to pledge they would not practice such discrimination. This committee officials said, leaves violators open to suspension of the contracts or fines on charges of contract violation.

The committee charged the firms declined to employ Negroes or Jews; advertised, or asked employment agencies, for white, Protestant or gentle workers only, and failed to give workers of some race or creed due promotional opportunities.

They are Dick Chessman and Homer G. Asmus, who were named in the upper 25 per cent of those participating in the exam. Chessman finished in fourth place, Asmus in eighth.

Robert W. Morris of Lisbon topped the roster. Others included Robert Glen Tefft, Richard Henry Thomas, Roy J. Carmichael, and Beth Martz of Wellsville. Betty Mae Evans of Columbiana, Glenn A. Arter of Lisbon and Robert A. Weinhardt of East Liverpool. Reila Mun-dunlap of Lisbon received honorable mention.

ASK SHOWDOWN IN WAR LABOR

Advocates Of Restrictive Legislation Urge Action By Unions

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, April 13.—Advocates of restrictive labor legislation served notice today that only an agreement by unions to waive overtime pay for a 48-hour week in war industries would swerve them in their efforts to force a congressional showdown on this question next week.

Senator Connally (D-Tex.) paved the way for such a showdown by inviting those of different views to argue their case. If he is successful in bringing before the senate his bill to permit the government to take over strike-bound plants freezing working conditions and labor relations in such plants.

NIPPON PUTS HEAVY FORCE INTO ACTION

Three Battleships, Five Aircraft Carriers Are Reported

HINT OF INDIAN INVASION IS SEEN

Strong Challenge Thrown Out To British And U. S. Fleets

By CLYDE A. FARNSWORTH, Associated Press War Editor

With at least a fourth of its total strength in battleships, perhaps half of its aircraft carriers and formidable contingents of supporting and covering craft, the Japanese imperial fleet has seized effective control of the Bay of Bengal in the war's strongest challenge to the United States and British fleets.

Prime Minister Churchill gravely disclosed in the house of commons today that at least three Japanese battleships, including one of 32,720 tons mounting 15-inch guns, along with five aircraft carriers, a number of light and heavy cruisers and several destroyer flotillas are operating there at the front door to India.

India Invasion Hinted The size of the force indicated to Britain that it had been sent to support invasion of India. With such a force, London military observers said, the Japanese could shield the seaward flank of land forces descending from Burma, across the upper Bengal border into the Ganges basin.

NOSE-PUNCHING MIGHT HELP

Nothing sensational came of it, but an important political figure and a well known publisher tried to beat each other's ears off in Washington recently because they disagreed on the subject of responsibility for the rubber shortage. It's one case where a little nose-punching might help.

The political figure was Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce, the official charged with responsibility before the Pearl Harbor disaster for building a rubber stockpile. The publisher was Eugene Meyer; he had published an editorial blaming Mr. Jones for the rubber shortage.

Now of course it is silly to blame Mr. Jones for the rubber shortage. But what really peeved Mr. Meyer was the fact that Mr. Jones seems inclined to blame the rubber industry, which is even sillier. It is a trend, nevertheless, and that's why some nose punching might help.

Washington had been practicing business-baiting for a good many years before this war fired up—and the habit is established. In the depression, business could be blamed for anything and everything; the depression was an economic sinking spell, and that's in the field of private enterprise.

But war, of course, isn't in the field of private enterprise. It lies wholly within the field of government. It was put there specifically in the preamble of the Constitution—"to provide for the common defense" was one of the purposes of creating a central government.

To the extent that spokesmen for the government keep trying to shove off blame for lacks and shortages that impede the war effort on private enterprise, they had better be prepared to put up their fists and fight it out. There is no disposition to accept responsibility. There is, on the other hand, an urgent disposition to pitch in to make up for past mistakes, and if government spokesmen can forget business-baiting long enough to concentrate on that, they'll be astonished at the results. Where they already have done so, in fact, there is more war material being rolled off loading platforms than they could have expected to see there if they had been running all the private enterprise of the United States, themselves, which is what they seem to be panting to do sometimes.

PHILIPPINE LESSON

It is interesting now to remember what used to be said about the Philippines. They could not be held without vastly greater preparations than were being made. The promise of independence held out to them meant nothing whatever when Japan began to put a policy of empire expansion into effect, because Filipinos merely would trade the direction of the United States for the mastery of Japan.

The Philippines had to be held—and other stronger outposts had to be developed—if this country intended to resist Japan's treatment of China. It was no situation for halfway measures; a major disaster was in the making for the United States if it let anything to change. Writing in Saturday Evening Post in April, 1939, Edgar Snow predicted virtually what now has happened, unless the government bolstered its antagonistic attitude toward Japan with stronger naval bases. It made a beginning, but there still were workmen on Guam when it was captured, and in the Philippines too little and too late was the story of preparations for aerial warfare.

Filipinos never loved the United States so much as they did when they realized what was in store for them at the hands of the Japanese, unless the United States held them at bay. The Philippine lesson, as much or more than the bitter lessons the British have learned, is that too little and too late spells tragedy against alert, aggressive enemies who are gambling everything on quick victory.

FAIR REDISTRICTING IMPOSSIBLE

A ruling by the Ohio supreme court holding a senatorial redistricting proposal unconstitutional is accompanied by remarks from outside the court that the plan would have been unfair. There can be no argument about that.

There never was a fair redistricting plan. That's the reason Ohio has been piddling along for years with congressmen-at-large; Democrats and Republicans can't agree on how to give them districts without giving one party or the other an advantage.

From a Democratic viewpoint, redistricting always should increase Democratic representation; from the Republican viewpoint, Republican strength should be increased. There is no happy medium, just as there is no happy medium when two hungry dogs start eyeing the same piece of beefsteak.

Of course from the ordinary citizen's point of view, redistricting is purely a problem of giving voters equal representation in legislative assemblies. But it's almost amusingly naive to speak of it in the midst of a redistricting squabble for, by and of politicians.

HELP FOR THE AXIS
By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

The Indian rejection of Britain's offer of dominion status, in exchange for support in the war effort, certainly is porridge and cream for the Axis bowl, since this lack of coordination in defense of one of the strategically vital bases is a grave threat to the Allied cause.

Pandit Nehru, political leader of the All-India Congress (nationalist) party, who is said to have been one of a minority of the leaders favoring acceptance of the offer, discloses that Berlin and Tokyo have been sending "frantic appeals" in an effort to swing the Indians away from Britain. Thus the rejection gives Germany and Japan a chance, no matter how unwarranted, to claim a diplomatic success.

While the Indians abhor the idea of any foreign overlordship, be it British or Japanese, there still remains a widespread feeling among them as regards these two nations that, as Nehru puts it, "one is really as good or bad as the other." Nehru himself declares that he cannot tolerate this conception, but the fact that it exists most certainly hurts the British position and makes the Axis going easier.

Whether the Japs will seize upon the weakness produced by the British-Indian imbroglio and attempt an invasion remains to be seen, but the situation is an invitation to them. The nationalist idea of refraining from acting with the British and of organizing their own opposition to invasion probably is further encouragement to the Japanese, because such disorganized and conflicting defense must hamper its own ends.

America sympathizes with the Indian desire for independence, since our own country went through a similar crisis. And one must admire the Indians' courage, however mistaken, in standing on their own feet in face of invasion by barbaric hordes; the people of Hindustan never have been afraid to die. Still, I'm afraid that the folk of that still largely primitive country have small idea of what modern warfare can mean.

KIDNEY INFLAMMATIONS OF TWO KINDS

Bright's Disease And Pyelitis Are Discussed

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
INFLAMMATIONS of the kidney are of at least two general kinds. One is the chronic tissue degeneration which is known as Bright's disease. This seldom produces any very serious symptoms until it is far advanced. It practically never produces pain and the old-fashioned picture of the man leaning over on a cane, with his hand over the small of his back represented an entirely false conception.

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Infection of the kidney with germs, however, is an entirely different sort of process. The commonest form is that in which only the pelvis of the kidney is involved, pyelitis, and which affects mostly children and elderly people. Where you do have pain in the small of the back and also fever and pus and the urine, it indicates the side and nature of the disease.

How the germs get there is quite a mystery. The kidney is pretty well protected and germs don't just float in as they do into the lungs and the digestive tract. The usual explanation is that most of the germs which cause pyelitis in infancy are normal inhabitants of the intestines and that there is a pathway of lymphatics from the intestine to the pelvis of the kidney.

Difficult to Diagnose

The condition may be very mysterious and may fool the attending physician for a long time. The child may have fever and chills which nobody is able to explain. The collection of a child's urine for examination is difficult, and the younger the child, the greater the difficulty.

In elderly people in these cases there is backache, but children usually aren't able to explain their illness and the localization may be missed for a long time. However, the alert pediatrician is always thinking of pyelitis in any child with an unexplained fever and he soon makes an examination which will reveal the true nature of the condition.

The cases are fairly easy to treat. There are a number of drugs which are harmless in themselves but which are excreted in quite strong concentrations in the pelvis of the kidney and which kill off the germs responsible for the condition.

Use of Water

Besides this, the use of plenty of water to flush out the kidney is a logical form of treatment and in few cases will complications arise, so that actual pus found in the urine is a fairly rare condition.

The importance of this subject lies in the fact that a child may be ailing for a long time and may not respond to the diagnostic tests for typhoid fever, Malta fever or any of the more common infections, while this condition may be the root of the evil. It is important that it should be recognized early in order that proper treatment may be instituted before any of the complications arise.

In elderly people the treatment can be carried out more effectively because it is more humane to irrigate the pelvis of an elderly person than it is that of a child.

Questions and Answers

M. F.:—"Do you think it is advisable to have a lung collapsed if one's condition is not serious, only a small spot above the apex bone? Is it a dangerous procedure?"

Answer: If your doctor advises it, he being on the ground, I would certainly advise it. Often the best results are obtained in the earliest cases. It is not dangerous.

M. G.:—"What is the treatment of rhinitis? Is it dangerous when the inflammation spreads to the ears?"

Answer: Rhinitis is about the same as sinus disease about which I wrote an article some time ago. There is no single treatment for it. Some people do well with nasal sprays and others need an operation and change of climate. No definite answer can be given to your question until a capable doctor has made a careful examination.

A. R.:—"Will lemon juice help one to reduce? If so, how much juice could safely be used per day?"

Answer: Lemon juice itself does not do any reducing. Its only function is to satisfy the appetite partially and keep you from eating more nutritious foods of high caloric value. Lemon juice itself has a very low caloric value. There is hardly any limit to the amount of lemon juice a person can take a day. At least three or four lemons are perfectly safe.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendenning has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp to Dr. Logan Clendenning, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

MATA HARI'S Daughter

By MAURICE DEKOBRA and LEYLA GEORGIE

SYNOPSIS
A Fifth Column "blitzkrieg" is under way in England led by a mysterious Ajax who officially and secretly is considered more menacing than Stuka bombers to the defense of the realm. The confessed treason of Mata Hari, ace English spy, followed by the sensational murder of Capt. Hugh Kenley, have put Sir John Sanderson, British Intelligence chief, in a desperate quandary. Sir John's ward, beautiful Brinda Duncan, had given a lift in her car to a jumpy stranger whom she mistook for an Englishman. But he was a Nazi parachutist and when leaving Brinda's car, he shot Capt. Kenley. Brinda meets Lieut. Richard Malden, a former beau, when both are looking through photos in the Intelligence Office's "rogues' gallery." He has just told her that his engagement to Gladys, daughter of Lord and Lady Mountwain, is to be announced that evening. Brinda had none too pleasant memories of glittering Gladys as a schoolmate. But Sir John and his ward go to the Mountwain party, where Gladys is proudly showing off the rapturously Russian, Prince Vaslav, described by Dick as "a sort of society entertainer." During a Vaslav-directed "blackout dance," a low cry is heard but by few. Lord Mountwain tells Dick, "Colonel Sanderson has been stabbed," then assured him that none can escape from the grounds. While Brinda administers first aid, her wounded guardian warns her to be "careful!" Then Dr. MacDonald arrived to treat his old friend. When they are alone, Sir John murmurs, "I'll tell you something I couldn't tell any other living man." It was the story of Brinda's parentage: her father killed by a tiger in India; her mother, years later, shot as a spy. Meanwhile, Brinda in the dark garden hears two guttural voices, one grumbling in German: "Ach, you bungled it!"

her to bite her lip in impatience. In her anxiety, she pressed forward against the evergreens. A dead twig broke with a sharp snap. "Nau!" exclaimed one of the two voices. "Schnell! See who is there."
A stealthy foot sounded and a hulking gray figure loomed out of the night.
Brinda opened her lips to scream. Before a sound issued, a hand was pressed firmly across her mouth from behind. Fingers of steel plucked her arms behind her back. She struggled with all her might, finally sinking her teeth into the hand that closed her lips. She was rewarded by an angry "Verflucht!" and a solid box on the ear.
"Hurry, you two," said her captor in German. "Help me with this wildcat!"
Brinda kicked out wildly. But powerful fingers seized her legs and lifted her in the air. Blackness descended upon her head — some rough, heavy fabric. Hard fingers pressed against her jaws forcing her mouth open for the insertion of an improvised gag.
"Why take all this trouble?" demanded a voice. "Use the knife!"
"No," said her captor. "Some-where, sometime, Brinda was sure she had heard that voice before. "No, I have a better way."
Brinda felt the covering over her head pulled a little aside. A faint, sickish odor assailed her nostrils. Her head swam dizzily. She seemed

"Our Leader is growing soft," he said. "Why should he spare this English girl?"
"Halt! Maul!" snapped his companion. "It is our business to obey — not to think."
"Mueller will have a word to say about it, I think."
"Mueller? Who is he? contemptuously. "Just a strong man. An ox. Why would our Leader listen to him?"
"Herr Himmler does not waste his parachutes on oxen. I suspect this Mueller is more important than we know."
"That's no matter. We have our orders and we'll take her to headquarters accordingly. After that — the Leader can do with her as he likes."
"I can imagine what that will be," said the first speaker, chuckling hoarsely. "Suppose we have a look at her."
"Nein!"
But in spite of the command, a flashlight stabbed briefly at Brinda's closed eyelids. Almost as swiftly, the light was knocked aside.
"Nein!" came the order again. The other man grunted angrily. "Ach! You're a regular tyrant. Can't a man look at a handsome Fraulein? Ach, she is a beauty! She doesn't look like one of the cold, English kind. I wonder if she is."
"Didn't you hear the Leader say so?"
"Yes, that's true. Well, I don't

Brinda, in spite of her bonds, contrived to throw herself upon the gunman.

to be suffocating — then suddenly utter darkness. . . . quiet. . . . soundless, lightless oblivion.
The keen tang of swift-rushing country air. . . . bonds biting into her ankles and wrists, a soreness in all her muscles, an acrid taste.
Brinda emerged from a darkness that seemed to have lasted for ages. Instinct rather than any reasoning process told her to remain motionless, to keep her eyes closed, to give no sign she had regained consciousness.
Gradually she became aware that she was in an amply-powered and smoothly-running motorcar. On either side she sensed the presence of a hard, compact, male body — doubtless the same men who had overpowered her.
After a long interval, one of them spoke. . . . and Brinda was doubly glad then she had remained quiet. It was the guttural, hollow voice of the man who had taken the lead in the previous conversation.

blame him now so much. A man with such responsibilities is entitled to some fun."
"Kush! Kush!" the man of the rasping voice again. "You talk too much."
Peering ever so carefully beneath her long lashes, Brinda saw that there was a third man in the car, hunched over the wheel.
Desperately, Brinda considered her situation. It would be hours before Sir John would miss her. Naturally, he would assume she had joined the others in the drawing-room. As for Dick — he would be with Gladys — making love to her no doubt — accepting congratulations on their engagement.
"What's that?" It was the man on her right. "There's a car after us, Fritz! Better a little more speed."

The car bounded forward. Brinda realized that both her captors were leaning from the window looking backward.
"He's almost on us!" cried one, excitedly.
"Wait till he's nearer! Hand me the gun!"
The car rocked and swerved. There was a stab of headlights — then a clear English voice calling: "Here you chaps! Throttle down . . . pull up!"
Was it Dick's voice or just her imagination?
Brushing against Brinda in his haste, one of the men raised and leveled an ugly looking sub-machine gun.
"Shoot!" exclaimed his companion. "Give it to the English dogs!"
Again, came the English voice: "Halt, there!" It was Dick!
Brinda, in spite of her bonds, contrived by a tremendous effort, to throw herself forward to that her whole weight was suddenly precipitated upon the gunman. There was a deafening rattle of shots followed by a shriek of metal and hard-locked tires.
A mighty invisible hand seemed to lift Brinda and hurl her backward. A bullet sang by her ear. Glass shattered. Then a jarring shock. . . . silence.

How Women's Clothing Is Affected by the War

This is out

This is okay

How Uncle Sam's war-time restrictions on milady's garments affect women's woolen suits is shown in these two pictures, posed especially by a Washington model. At the left is the unrestricted suit. The dress with a blouse top and the jacket required six yards and 27 inches of material. At right, the war-time style is without blouse and required only four yards and 26 inches of material. Restrictions of women's clothes, which aren't as noticeable as on men's, will result in an expected production of 15 per cent more garments out of the same yardage of cloth.

FEDERAL SERVICE SEEKS APPLICANTS

At no other time in our history have women's opportunities for entrance into the federal service been so many or so great. Recent broad relaxation of requirements make it possible for women typists who are American citizens, to receive appointment in Washington, D. C., at yearly salaries beginning at $1200 and $1440.

Women stenographers who can take dictation at the rate of 96 or more words a minute may also be appointed at salaries of $1440 annually for duty in Washington, D. C., or Wright field, Dayton.

Applicants for these positions are given examination by local civil service representatives to determine eligibility. Those selected are offered immediate appointment. Each appointee is required to furnish her own transportation to the place of employment.

Persons who are interested in these positions should report immediately to the local secretary, board of D. S. Civil Service examiners at any first or second class post office, to any U. S. Employment Service office, or to the Sixth U. S. Civil Service district, Federal building, Cincinnati.

Salona Supply Co., Other Firms Conserve Tires And Trucks

In order to conserve tires, motor fuel and general wear on trucks the Salona Supply company, and the other farm supply dealers of this district, have adopted the plan of making no deliveries after 2 o'clock.

This policy makes it possible to group orders and save many miles of driving. Anyone needing any item handled by the Salona Supply company, unless the order amounts to enough to make a full truck load, will find this delivery service does not inconvenience them if they will anticipate their needs for the following day by the 2 o'clock deadline.

The management feels everyone wants to do all in their power to help during these critical days. The savings that will result if carried out all over the nation would mean a great saving in man hours, oil, motor fuel, tires and the general wear on trucks that can not be replaced for the duration.

Correct Alignment Saves Tires

You could not correct the alignment of your car which is so important to tire wear if you had available the intricate machinery pictured. To use this machinery men have to spend considerable time at the factory school where everything for every make of car is actually done under strict supervision of qualified instructors.

In fact, as new models of cars were built these trained men had to take post graduate work in order to master the many changes. The Matt Klein shop on Newgarden

CONSERVATION OF CAR IS ESSENTIAL

All-Out Production Program Demands Elimination Of Waste

Never before has production been so vital to a nation and its people as it is today.

Men and machines throughout the country are working day and night in the battle on the home front to keep the boys on the fighting fronts properly equipped for the tremendous job ahead of them.

Waste is being eliminated wherever possible because it interferes with production. Every individual can check himself on this particular angle and the collective results will go far toward helping the united war effort.

Although automobile production has ceased, and tires are not obtainable, insofar as the average individual is concerned, most people continue to use their cars, many of necessity.

With the future, as far as tires and auto parts are concerned, pretty much of a problem, the man who drives a car can help the situation by conserving everywhere possible.

Heretofore a motorist could hike to the nearest garage and buy just about whatever he needed in the way of replacements. That is not possible now and it's hard to tell when it will be.

There is one sure way, however, to put additional miles of service into your car and that is to have it properly serviced at regular intervals.

The Grate garage, S. Ellsworth ave., has modern equipment of all types for this kind of work. Experienced mechanics will check your car, point by point, and you will find that constant examination will keep down the operations expense, rather than increase it.

TRANSPORTATION PROBLEM LOOMS

Movement Of War Materials, Troops Ties Up Rolling Stock

"Order your next winter's supply of coal now—All of it!"

Urges William Tolerton, manager of the Citizen's Ice and Coal company and he goes on to say that "All of us want to do everything we can to help end this war. Here's something that every user of coal can do to help win the war more quickly. Order your coal now—store it for next winter."

"Every railroad is being taxed to the limit to haul war supplies and soldiers. Old box cars, freight cars, engines, day coaches and old pullmans are being repaired so that there will be enough transportation facilities to move war materials and soldiers from one part of the country to the other.

"It is our belief that many families next winter will find themselves without enough coal unless they cover their requirements now. Store the coal in your basement, your garage, your barn or, if necessary, build an inexpensive lean-to or shed. Get your coal in before July 1st because after that date the government is going to need every truck, every car, coal car, box car and passenger car that can be released to transport the war materials and soldiers. We urge you to hoard coal. It's health insurance for your family."

Sixteen Managers Set Sights For First Division Berths In '42

TRIBE LEAVES FOR DETROIT TO MEET TIGERS IN OPENER

Harder, Smith, Kennedy Stay In Cleveland To Work Out

(By Associated Press)
Cleveland, April 13.—Five days of idleness, due to something which comes under the heading of "weather," have scrambled the Cleveland Indians' pitching and batting techniques on the eve of the season's opener.

Before leaving tonight for Detroit, where the Tribe probably will send Jim Bagby to the mound against the Tigers' Al Benton in a contest before some 35,000 fans, the Indians sought another practice session this afternoon.

Neither of the weekend exhibition games scheduled with the New York Giants materialized, but yesterday the local club achieved its first outdoor workout since a week ago today, when the Indians defeated the Giants at Greenville, Miss.

Most of the two and one half hours was allotted to batting drill, as manager Lou Boudreau solicitously endeavored to give his men a chance to regain their batting eyes.

The only thing certain about the pitching situation was that Al Smith, Mel Harder and Vernon Kennedy would not make the trip to Detroit. Boudreau told them to stay at home and keep working out daily at League Park. Harder has been nominated for the home opener against the Chicago White Sox next Friday.

By curtailing the final week of the Indians' exhibition trip with the Giants, the weather upset Boudreau's plans for getting his pitchers lined up for action.

The young manager still was to choose between Bagby and Al Miller for the opening game at Detroit.

Reds Meet Pirates In Opener Tuesday

(By Associated Press)
CINCINNATI, April 13.—The Cincinnati Reds open the baseball season here tomorrow against Pittsburgh convinced that while league pennants aren't won until September, they can be lost before mid-May.

World champions and experts' choice to repeat, the 1941 Reds dropped 11 games behind the league leader in the first month. They consoled themselves that as a "hot weather" ball club they'd be in the thick of the fight by Labor Day.

All the Redleg memories are long enough—and manager Bill McKechnie has been jogging them all spring—to recall that Brooklyn and St. Louis, who made hay early, didn't cooperate and the Reds ended up 11½ games off the pace.

Veteran Bucky Walters was regarded as the probable opening day hurler, although McKechnie hasn't announced his choice and Elmer Riddle was a possibility.

The remainder of Tuesday's lineup probably will be the same as the one which got 10 hits in beating the Detroit Tigers 6-5 here yesterday in the exhibition finale: Eddie Joost, shortstop; Lonnie Frey, second base; Ival Goodman, right field; Gerald Walker, left field; Frank McCormick, first base; Bert Haas, third base; Mike McCormick, center field; and Rollie Hemsley, catcher.

A recent Chilean law requires that 10 per cent of all building construction costs be devoted to sculpture and decorative art.

NEW STARS SHINE AS ABC STANDINGS UNDERGO CHANGE

Iowan Posts 297 Game As St. Louis Budweisers Blas. Out 3111

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, April 13.—The standings board at the American Bowling Congress tournament sparked with new stars today.

Sharpshooting newcomers topped the doubles, singles and all-events columns—and by way of a shining sidelight Henry Wollenberg of Davenport, Ia., posted a 297 game, within three pins of a perfect 300, in team bowling with the City Hall Smokehouse quintet. After 11 strikes, the Iowan left the 1-2-8. It was the highest individual game in the tourney to date.

Nelson Burton, captain of the St. Louis Budweiser team that took second place with 3111 Saturday, blasted out a 746 for first position in the singles. He rolled games of 235, 246 and 265.

The all-events lead went to Stanley Moskal of Saginaw, Mich., with 1973 on counts of 593 in the five-man, 711 in the doubles and 663 in the singles.

A brace of Milwaukeeans, Ed Nowicki and George Baier, amassed 1377 to pace the doubles. Nowicki contributed games of 245, 231 and 206—total 682, while Baier scored 224, 235 and 236—695. They displaced Angelo Zanolini and John Seebeck of Clifton, N. J., who hit 1365 three months earlier.

His 1952 brought Roy Simmons of Des Moines, Ia., fourth place in the all-events. He bowled an eighth-place 711 in the singles, 629 with his team and 612 in the doubles.

TEXANS DEADLOCKED IN MASTER'S EVENT
Despite the long list of shattered records which Stella has left behind her, she urges moderation in all exercises and not "to try to break records."

"It's moderation that counts," she said. "No one should try to break records unless they intend to make sport part of their life work."

"But, in general, Americans take athletics too lightly. There is no regular schedule of training in athletics that is so necessary for physical fitness."

"The Americans have produced the world's finest athletes. They are the standard performers. But the general public itself is not as fit as in many other countries where there is controlled athletic training."

Born Stanislaw Walasiewicz—a name changed when he began breaking records 14 years ago—Stella's career hasn't been a meteoric one in which she flashed before the athletic world and then faded. Instead, she has maintained her record-breaking pace through the years. In her first competition she broke the women's national record for 50 yards.

Praises Jap Women
The last record to fall before her flying feet was last year at Cleveland when she eclipsed the 220-yard women's indoor mark at the Knights of Columbus track meet.

She has smashed records in the javelin throw, in broad jumping and in sprinting. In 1932 she was nominated as one of the 10 outstanding amateur athletes of the year.

Basketball is more important to her these days. Five years ago she organized a Polish women's basketball team which has become one of the nation's greatest women's teams.

Despite her present war feelings, Stella maintains that the finest woman athlete she ever met—and she has met those in practically every nation of the world on her tours—was a Japanese woman, Kinu Hitomi.

AKRON POLISH UNION WINS ALL-SLAV CAGE TOURNAMENT
AKRON, April 13.—The Akron Polish Roman Catholic union defeated the Cleveland Slovak Catholic Sokols 40 to 28 to win the national all-Slav basketball tournament. A 42 to 41 victory over the Pittsburgh Serbian Juniors brought the Farrell (Pa.) Croatian Fraternal union the fraternal union championship.

Posting signs at Ebbets Field

If enemy planes stage an air raid over the New York area during baseball games, ball fans attending major league games in Yankee Stadium, the Polo Grounds or Ebbets Field will know what to do and where to go. Ball club officials have posted signs telling patrons where to go during an air raid. Water barrels painted red, sand bins and fire extinguishers are everywhere in evidence, too, just in case.

FEMININE ATHLETE SEES WORKOUTS AS BEST HEALTH ROAD

Stella Walsh of Olympic Fame Advises Regular Training Schedule

CLEVELAND—Stella Walsh, fleet-footed woman athlete of Olympics fame who keeps fit by working out 30 minutes each day, believes that all Americans should adopt a similar program.

So concerned is Stella over the physical fitness of Americans that she has written to the Office of Civilian Defense at Washington, offering her services in any capacity.

"If all of us would work out for half an hour a day we'd have a much healthier country," Stella said.

Thirty minutes each day, she confided, keeps her at the peak which enabled her to win 650 trophies and 61 world and national track and field records during the past 14 years.

Regular Schedule Necessary
Despite the long list of shattered records which Stella has left behind her, she urges moderation in all exercises and not "to try to break records."

"It's moderation that counts," she said. "No one should try to break records unless they intend to make sport part of their life work."

"But, in general, Americans take athletics too lightly. There is no regular schedule of training in athletics that is so necessary for physical fitness."

"The Americans have produced the world's finest athletes. They are the standard performers. But the general public itself is not as fit as in many other countries where there is controlled athletic training."

Born Stanislaw Walasiewicz—a name changed when he began breaking records 14 years ago—Stella's career hasn't been a meteoric one in which she flashed before the athletic world and then faded. Instead, she has maintained her record-breaking pace through the years. In her first competition she broke the women's national record for 50 yards.

WHITE SOX WINNER IN ANNUAL SERIES
(By Associated Press)
Chicago, April 13.—Another season, and another Chicago city series—for the White Sox.

The losers—the Cubs—really made a fight of it this spring, however. They rallied to win three straight games and tie up the series at five tilts apiece going into yesterday's finale at Comiskey park, home of the Sox.

The Cubs were still in the running through 7½ innings, the score then being tied at 3-3. But before the eighth inning was concluded the Sox scored, Joe Kuhel and Luke Appling executing a double steal for the run that brought 4-3 victory, and the spring championship.

A. L. Pilots See Yanks As Team To Beat; Cards Rate Highly In National League

BY AUSTIN BEALMAR
NEW YORK, April 13.—If all the hopes, desires and predictions are fulfilled this year for managers of major league baseball teams, the first divisions of both the circuits are going to be a little crowded.

Not a single manager could be found today who was willing to admit that his club wasn't tagged for an upper berth. But half of them, if the weather doesn't interfere, are due for a setback tomorrow when all 16 teams are scheduled to start play in the first wartime season in 24 years.

The lineup sends New York to Washington, Philadelphia to Boston, St. Louis to Chicago and Cleveland to Detroit in the American league, while the National loop will find Brooklyn at New York, Boston at Philadelphia, Pittsburgh at Cincinnati and Chicago at St. Louis.

From 24-year-old Lou Boudreau, who begins his assignment as manager of the Cleveland Indians, to 79-year-old Connie Mack off the Philadelphia Athletics, the club leaders agree that baseball is in for a big year.

Most of them believe that the war will have some effect on the play of the teams but none expects business at the gates to decline.

Few dared to pick a winner in the National league, but American league managers with the exception of Joe McCarthy, think the New York Yankees are the boys to beat.

Joe McCarthy Silent
Connie Mack picked the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox to run one-two in the American league, while Yankee manager Joe McCarthy promises "something interesting" from his club, which will be after its sixth American league pennant in seven years.

There was a note of confidence in the statement of Manager Leo Durocher of the National league champion Brooklyn Dodgers, who declared:

"I feel that I have a better ball club than last year and we won the pennant with that one."

"I hope the Indians finish in the first division," said Cleveland's Lou Boudreau. "If the team makes any berth better than fourth, I'll be very happy. But don't forget, the pennant is our goal."

Joe Cronin believes his Boston Red Sox are as good, if not better, than last year. "The Yankees are favored, of course," he said "and it's up to Boston, Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland and St. Louis to knock them off."

"It'll be the Yankees again in the American league," said Jimmy Dykes of Chicago's White Sox and Del Baker of Detroit Tigers, but Luke Sewell of the St. Louis Browns summed up the situation with:

"Anything can happen. The team that gets the breaks will win."

Said Bucky Harris of the Washington Senators: "I'm packing up for fourth, but I'm not betting."

Nipponese Are Told To Keep Hands Off In Russian East

mand put the cost of the last 24 hours of RAP offensive action over Europe at 24-15 downed by day and nine by night.

The German air force increased its pace on the Russian front, in support of light counter-attacks by infantry and tanks in a general attempt to feel out the depth of the Red army's positions. Warm weather and slush prevailed in the principal fighting areas.

Russian sappers at one point were reported to have diverted the course of a flood from the spring thaw, washing the enemy out of a fortified village. Russians voiced belief that the next offensive would be their own, that the German army would be smashed on Russian soil this year or, if the worst came, that the Red army would continue the fight in the Urals or Siberia.

The German high command acknowledged Russian attacks at several points but named only Kerch peninsula, in the Crimea, where it said the Russians, weakened by losses Saturday, were repulsed yesterday.

In the other sectors the attacks were "by strong enemy forces," likewise repulsed, according to Berlin. Motorized infantrymen were credited with killing 1,000 Russians and taking 650 prisoners in a German attack.

German bombers were reported by Berlin to have struck again at harbor installations at Murmansk, Russia's far northern port of entry, where a roundabout report from Moscow said a big convoy of American, British and Dutch ships had berthed.

OHIOAN IS FIRST IN A.E.F. TO MARRY

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, April 13.—Private Herbert Cooke of Cleveland braved possible U. S. army displeasure today to marry an 18-year-old colleen in a church locked against those who might interfere.

He was the first AEF man to wed and his bride was Miss Theima Smith. When her father reached the Presbyterian church, he found the doors locked and had to return home.

Army authorities do not require enlisted men to obtain specific permission to marry, but say it "is advisable." Private Cooke apparently obtained only the permission of his bride and her parents.

a Japanese aircraft carrier near Rabaul.)

Despite violent anti-aircraft fire from ships and shore batteries and opposition from Japanese fighters, all the Allied planes were safely, the communiqué added. One enemy fighter plane was seen pluming earthward after trailing smoke during the engagement. Its destruction was not officially confirmed.

Initial accounts of the Allied raids yesterday did not mention destruction of any Japanese planes in air combats. From communiqué and semi-official dispatches, however, it was calculated that at least 28 enemy planes had been destroyed or seriously damaged during the two preceding days.

Army Minister Francis Forde returned from a tour of training camps and declared "The whole Australian nation must be organized to meet an immediate attack from a ruthless enemy."

"I am satisfied from personal inspections of troops in Australia and America camps," he said, "that the men are fired with enthusiasm and determination that must meet success if they are backed up by the whole nation."

"There's a growing spirit of offense and ruthlessness in the troops, quickened by the threat of invasion."
